Guest Speaker

Presented by José Antonio Esquibel

Mutiny and Murder: The Religious Feud that Formed the Genealogies of 17th-century New Mexico

The New Mexico mutiny of 1639 separated the Spanish vecinos for more than a year into two opposing groups. The families that supported the Franciscans fought against the families that supported Governor don Luis de Rosas. This presentation will delve into the historical context that led to this mutiny starting around 1612 and which culminated in the murder of Rosas. The consequences of the ongoing political conflict continued to affect social conditions of NM into the 1660s, including matrimonial alliances (which families intermarried) and where families lived.

On one side of the conflict were the vecinos who supported the authority of the Franciscans. And on the other were the vecinos who supported the authority of the successive governors. The first faction held the upper hand politically and economically until the murder of Rosas. After that event, the second faction became the dominant families in the politics and economy of New Mexico. This presentation will identify which families belonged to which factions and which families managed to not get entangled in the long-standing and at times violent political feud.

A long-time author and contributor to the NMGS Journal and speaker at their conferences, José Antonio Esquibel is a genealogical researcher and historian specializing on the history of 17th century New Mexico and co-author with France V. Scholes, Eleanor B. Adams, and Marc Simmons of Juan Domínguez de Mendoza: Frontiersman of the Spanish Southwest, 1627-1693 (University of New Mexico, 2012).

Board Member Candidates

Presidential Candidate:

John Abreu Grassham

John Abreu Grassham has served as the President of the New Mexico Historical Society (NMHS), and has worked in numerous New Mexico archival collections, including the New Mexico State Archives under the direction of NM first State Historian, Myra Ellen Jenkins. With a deep passion for uncovering the past and a dedication to preserving the rich heritage of New Mexico, Grassham brings extensive experience in genealogical research, as a museum professional and community engagement to the role.

A 14th generation New Mexican, Grassham developed an interest in genealogy at a young age, inspired by his maternal grandmother's stories and historical tales of the region and the family's participation in NM life. This early curiosity led to a lifelong commitment to genealogical research and education. Grassham holds a MA in History from New Mexico University, where the academic focus included New Mexico and the history of Mexico, anthropology, and archival studies.

Beyond genealogical pursuits, John is actively involved in community service, volunteering with local heritage organizations and participating in cultural preservation projects. This commitment to community and history reflects the core mission of NMGS: to connect people with their past. Currently, Grassham is also a member of the Board of Trustees at the ABQ Museum.

Vice Presidential Candidate:

Susan Schwartz

In September of 1973, I moved to Corrales, New Mexico from El Paso, Texas. Being born in Michigan and spending several years in Texas, I had no knowledge of the significance of the house that I spent my first two years in—the historic Casa Perea.

My interest in New Mexico and especially Albuquerque started when I first visited Fairview Cemetery in 2002. Noticing that many of the headstones matched some of the city buildings and streets, I started my venture into the historic side of Fairview Cemetery. There I found famous and not so famous burials. I began to delve into the history of the cemetery and asked if I could help the office put their historic records into a database. They accepted my offer: the clerical work evolved to helping find family grave locations, Find a Grave entries, talks, tours, a museum exhibit in 2016, and a blog featuring close to 100 biographies on individuals buried at Historic Fairview Cemetery. I was employed by Fairview Memorial Park as Administrator and then Office Manager during some of this time. Because of the work and research done, I officially became the historian for the cemetery and now have spent twenty-one years in the role.

My passion for Albuquerque genealogical history led me to become Vice President of Historic Albuquerque, Inc. and to help establish the original Board of Directors for Historic Fairview Cemetery in 2010. I continue to serve on both boards and would be honored to join the New Mexico Genealogical Society board as Vice President.

Board Member Candidates

Jordan Jones has been a genealogist since 1973; has designed, edited, and published books and magazines since 1987; and has designed and published websites since 1995. He has served as the webmaster for five genealogical societies, and on the board of directors of three genealogical societies, including serving as the President of the National Genealogical Society and Vice President of NMGS.

Angela Lewis has been a volunteer for NMGS for many years, soon after her retirement in 2011. She takes care of membership, and updates QuickBooks and PayPal with member changes. She takes care of the incoming emails to NMGS, and is one of the proofreaders for the quarterly journal. Her life-long genealogy "addiction" is the Gurulé family website. Angela enjoys her volunteer work, loves genealogy, and enjoys interacting with members.

Susan Parras is currently employed at UNM where she is pursuing a master's certificate in Museum Studies. Susan has a background in local and international event and festival organizing, and has spent the last six years working in film and television production. With deep family roots in New Mexico, she is passionate about genealogy research and her interests lay in learning more about NM history and supporting SW genealogy communities. With skills in mass media, event organizing, data collections and management; Susan is looking to better aid NMGS through a second term as secretary for the Board of Directors.

Maxine Bazan is a current "Member at Large" on the NMGS Board and publishes the NMGS Newsletter, seeking to continue on the board for 2025–2026. She is an ardent patriot and served in the US Air Force Reserves. She has roots in the Belen, New Mexico area. Maxine is retired and has been a volunteer in many organizations with a variety of duties to include: Data collection, Newsletter publication, secretary, treasurer, and VP.

Daríá Landress is a long time NMGS member who has served as a volunteer in various capacities. She has been an NMGS DNA project lineage validator since 2017. She served a two-year term (2020- 2022) as secretary for the NMGS Board, and two more years (2022-2024) as NMGS Board Member at large, and contributed to the success of the NMGS DNA Project. In 2022, Daríá became a FamilyTreeDNA Group Project Administrator for the NMGS DNA Project. She enjoys helping others with their genealogical and DNA questions, solving genetic genealogical puzzles, and writing articles for The Genealogist, the NMGS journal.

THE GENEALOGY OF A VILLAGE - TRACING COMMUNITY RELATIONSHIPS

Submitted by: Henrietta Martinez Christmas

Some reasons for doing a Village Study - Is it historical, a place name, or do you have a brick wall? It is your surname, it is geographic.

Tips for Creating a Study:

1. Pick your name or location. Stick to that list, census, land grantees, occupations, etc.
  - a. Do some research and see what has been done prior.
  - b. Do you want to recreate someone else's work?
2. Maps
  - a. Google maps
  - b. BLM Maps
  - c. Land Grants
3. Look at all entries of the name you are studying and start collecting them. As genealogists, we use birth, marriage and death, but reach further than that.
  - a. Name variations.
  - b. Look at place name books.
  - c. Maps with the name or towns (locality).
4. Work on a system and how you will track these people.
  - a. Attendance in a location. [use a numbering system for each person]
  - b. One family at a time.
  - c. Track and trace.
  - d. Indexes.
  - e. Getting help.
  - f. Genealogy program.
  - g. Excel spreadsheets.
5. Mining for Data: Spend some time thinking about what you want to accomplish. You can review:
  - a. Published materials.
  - b. Occupations.
  - c. Migration.
  - d. Build Timelines.
  - e. Linking families.
  - f. Or a unique system.
6. Understanding when to draw the line. Consider living people, what they might want to publish, how to handle collaborators?
7. Present your findings, website, blog, emails.
8. Create a superb bibliography of books, articles and more. [what did you use for research]
  - a. People will ask what is the best book?
  - b. Which books have my ancestor?
9. Collecting of Data: Decide what you want to collect and how you might use the data.

THE GENEALOGY OF A VILLAGE - TRACING COMMUNITY RELATIONSHIPS

10. Sharing the Information:
  - a. Genealogy Articles

- b. Website
  - c. Facebook Page
  - d. Blogposts
  - e. Vertical Files in a Library
11. Employ good genealogical practices. Citations: make sure you have two good and verifiable documents for each link.
12. If this is a surname of males, how do you deal with women when they marry?
13. The non-trunk line people. [Not related]
  - a. Have some rules in place on how you are dealing with this, in a small geographic location.
  - b. Be prepared to answer those questions.
14. Pitfalls
  - a. It never ends
  - b. You will not connect them all if that is a goal
  - c. You will not make some people happy
  - d. Your system is not working
  - e. You might get burned out
  - f. Bridging impasses in the process

HONORING OUR ANCESTORS

Honoring your US Veteran Ancestor

For our Fall Newsletter, we'd like to take submissions of your US Veteran Ancestor. Submit a photo, caption, your name and a brief bio, no later than October 15th. You can email them to infnmgs@gmail.com. We plan on publishing them in one or two newsletters, depending on how many we get. Thanks!

Traveling to an Ancestors' Hometown

Submit your photos, who lived there and when. We can put them in our newsletter and share some of your travels and stories. An example might be if you go to Taos and or visit a cemetery, travel to Mexico or Spain. I'm sure your fellow NMGS members would love to see photos. Send them to infnmgs@gmail.com. Thanks.
